By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—The Board of Deputies of British Jews this week approved a program of action to aid the Jews in Nazi-held European countries, prepared by the Joint Foreign Committee of the Board. The plan suggests to the British Government that it take the following steps:

- (1) Announce that to the best of the country's possibilities, subject to all the necessary safeguards in connection with the security of the country, asylum will be afforded to Jewish refugees. A similar announcement to be made concerning colonies and other territories under control of the Home Government.
- (2) Endeavor to secure a similar offer from the United States and the other Allies regarding territory under their control.
- (3) Approach the Dominions to offer refuge. Such offers to include facilities for transit to other countries.
- (4) Use the Government's good offices to secure offers of refuge from the United States and the governments of Latin America.
- (5) Give adequate recognition to the specially favorable opportunities for refuge available in Palestine as a result of the country's geographic proximity to the countries from which the refugees could be transferred.
- (6) Acceptance by the United Kingdom, the United States and other of the United Nations of the ultimate responsibility for providing asylum for the refugees, whether such sanctuary is given by the United Nations or by neutral countries.
- (7) Encourage neutrals to help in the rescue and reception of refugees, with pledges by the United Nations that (a) they will receive in territories under their control such of the refugees as can be subsequently removed from the neutral countries; (b) such refugees that can be transferred during the war will be transferred after the war; (c) the cost of maintaining the refugees and extending other practical assistance will be borne by the United Nations.
- (8) The satellite countries, one or two of which have already shown their readiness to allow Jews to depart, should, through available neutral diplomatic channels, be encouraged to extend such emigration opportunities in the future.

A statement by the Board, accompanying the program, declares that the above steps, if taken immediately by the Government, on its own initiative, would save the lives of thousands of people. It suggests that the German Government be approached through appropriate channels and asked to allow the Jews to leave territory under German control; and that neutral nations should be requested to approach Germany jointly, in their own name, with the same proposal. The Deputies also suggest that perhaps the Pope might agree to associate himself with such a proposal by the neutral nations.

Discussing suitable machinery to carry out the practical measures suggested, the Board of Deputies also proposes that the British Government create a special agency with which the United States and other of the United Nations could later associate themselves.

2 Rabbis Resign From Group as Plan Discarded

A plan for the institution of a business-like rearrangement of the provision for kashruth in Indianapolis has been discarded, as two Indianapolis rabbis Tuesday night resigned from the Vaad Hakashruth of the city. The two rabbis, David Shapiro and Nandor Fruchter resigned in protest when the plan was shelved and a new contract was signed between the Union of Shochtim on one side and Rabbi S. A. Katz and Cantor Portnov.

Under the new plan, a two-cent tax would have been placed on every pound of kosher meat slaughtered in the city, one cent to be paid by the butcher and the other to be paid by the consumer. The tax would be collected by the Vaad Hakashruth, a system used extensively throughout the nation today. The salaries of the shochtim would have been paid by the Vaad.

The shochtim group, composed of Samuel Levin, A. Lazar, Salomon Greenberger, and Philip Adelman, who at first seemed to favor the plan, signed the new contract which permitted Cantor Portnov to join the group, and placed supervision in the hands of Rabbi Katz, giving him sole authority in matters of kashruth.

Under the present arrangement, the shochtim receive ten cents for each chicken they kill, and are allowed ten cents for each chicken picked.

The difficulty in the situation arose when the stopping of kosher slaughtering in the community cut into half, and even less, the revenue of the shochtim. All fees are turned into a common fund, and disbursements made equally to all members.

A group of rabbis, including Rabbis Shapiro and Fruchter, and Rabbi Israel Chodos and Rabbi Samuel Fox, drew up the new

10,000 Stand Outside As Garden Jammed in Protest

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—More than 20,000 people crowded Madison Square Garden here this week and thousands more jammed the streets outside, in the largest demonstration ever held to protest the Nazi massacre of Jews. The meeting addressed an appeal to President Roosevelt and the Government of the United States—and through them to the United Nations and all neutral states—to save the Jews of Europe from extermination by the Nazis through "effective action."

By 8 o'clock, shortly before the meeting opened, the approaches to the Garden were closed by the police, but 10,000 persons remained standing outside and heard the addresses through amplifiers after many thousands of others who were unable to get in were dispersed.

Speakers at the demonstration included Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Mayor LaGuardia, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; and representatives of many groups including the Christian Church.

A mass recital of Kaddish by the audience commemorated the Jews massacred by the Nazis.

Entitled "Stop Hitler Now," the demonstration was arranged under the auspices of the American Jewish Congress, the Church Peace Union, the American Federation of Labor, the C.I.O. in collaboration with thirty other organizations. The B'nai B'rith and the Jewish Labor Committee associated themselves with the purposes of the meeting. The American Jewish Committee also commended its purposes. The Archbishop of Canterbury and Cardinal Hinsley cabled messages from London.

Marshall Hails Levin's Efforts

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, has written to Mrs. Leah Levin, mother of the late Sergeant Meyer Levin of the Air Force, declaring that "the nation owes Sergeant Levin an everlasting debt of gratitude. It was with deep regret that I learned of the death of your son in the Southwest Pacific area," General Marshall wrote. "I realize that there is little that can be said to alleviate your grief, but I hope that you will derive some consolation in the knowledge that Meyer Levin served in the best traditions of the Army and of the American way of life."

had lived, it was reported this week in a dispatch from New Guinea. The three survivors of the crash which took Levin's life on January 7 revealed that his quick action saved their lives.

When the bomber, which had exhausted its gasoline supply trailing a Japanese convoy, crashed, Levin released the life raft on which three members of the crew floated until picked up by a rescue vessel, but was evidently knocked unconscious before he could escape. It was also revealed that Sgt. Levin had not been assigned to what proved to be his last flight but had volunteered to go along since he was an expert at identifying Japanese surface vessels.

One hundred medical field units bearing the name of Sgt. Levin will be sent to the Russian Army as a gift of the United Jewish War Effort, it was announced here this week.

The New York Times, in an editorial this week lauded "Levin's career as 'an example of patriotism, courage and devotion.'" Emphasizing that there is no doubt that Levin gave his life to save the lives of his mates, the editorial concludes: "Sergeant Levin made his last flight as a volunteer. He did not have to go on this particular flight. He went because he was an expert spotter and because he was a model soldier. It was Meyer Levin, calling 'I hope you make it,' who saved the survivors who were found. Wherever he is, he lies wrapped in glory."

London Leaders Stirred As USSR Executes 2

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—The news of the execution by the Soviet authorities of Victor Alter and Henryk Erlich, the two internationally-known leaders of the Jewish Socialist Party of Poland, has created a painful impression here among British liberals and Jews, as well as in Polish Government circles.

The official Soviet charges alleging that the two Jewish labor leaders spread propaganda among Soviet troops for the conclusion of a separate peace with Germany were termed "ridiculous" by all circles here where the two executed Polish-Jewish Socialists have been known for many years as ardent fighters against Fascism. The real reason for their tragic death is believed to be the fact that for many years they had opposed the Communist movement in Poland and were the leaders of a Jewish labor party which combated Communism.

Goodman, vice-chairman, and by Allan Bloom, secretary of the Army-Navy Committee of the U.S.O.-J.W.B., and Mrs. Mildred Levy, chairman of U.S.O. activities at Kirshbaum Center. They pointed out that the new demand was necessitated by inclusion of Atterbury in the scope of activity for U.S.O.-J.W.B. at Indianapolis.

Cpl. Diamond was leader of a three-man squad in a machine gun nest on the banks of the Tenaru River during the early fighting on Guadalcanal, which included Private Albert Schmid and Johnny Rivers. At dusk the Japs began to cross in great numbers, but the Diamond squad laced it into the would-be invaders with devastating effect. Then Rivers was hit and went down.

General Meat Rationing To Bring Kosher Meat Back

Although the OPA may issue an order which will make it possible to slaughter kosher meat in Indianapolis at any time in answer to requests repeated over and over again in the past few weeks, the kosher meat fast in the Jewish community will almost definitely be over by April 1, the Office of Price Administration here intimated Thursday. April 1 will see general meat rationing, and OPA officials could hardly see how the kosher meat would not be provided the Jewish people in Indianapolis under the same arrangement as meat for the general population.

Meanwhile the few hundred pounds made available at the two South Side butcher shops last Wednesday was all that reached the tables. The OPA clamped down on the Satinsky Packing Co., which had slaughtered a few cattle, on grounds that the slaughter house had exceeded its quota. OPA officials were unable to say how long the slaughter house would be closed, pending a check-up of the firm's books.

The editor's chair,

There is a great deal of discussion among the leaders of the community about the kind of drive to be held this spring by the Jewish Welfare Fund. As you know there is the problem of keeping constituent agencies of the fund supplied for the six months between April 1, the date when monies from last year's drive will be exhausted, and Oct. 1, the date when the first allocations from the War Chest, which the Welfare Fund voted last week to join, will be available.

Present plans are for a mail campaign, with very little fanfare, all based on the hope that everyone who gave last year will continue with a six-month contribution, totalling exactly half of last year's pledge. If this is done one hundred per cent, then the fund will have exactly half of $172,000, which was the 1942 total.

But there are many who believe that this sort of drive would be a failure, and leave many thousands of dollars lacking from the necessary amount. These people point out that not only are there a great number of soldiers in the army who last year gave sizeable donations, but that there have been deaths of several important contributors. In addition they contend rightly that there are some people who actually do not have the same funds they had in 1942 and therefore very sincerely will have to cut their pledge. Continuing they say, that if the others, many of whom have prospered, give exactly, in ratio, what they gave last year, then the drive will automatically fall considerably under the needed amount.

Among this group who dissent from the present plans, there are only a few who would suggest a full-blown drive as in year's past. But there is a growing number

Belarsky's Recital A Test

SIDOR BELARSKY'S appearance here next Sunday, March 14, has taken on a significance, which places a duty on those interested in furthering the Jewish cultural phase of activity in the community.

At first only the scheduling by the Jewish Community Center Association of one of the finest baritones in the country, the occasion has simmered down to a test of whether the community wants and will, as a result, support purely cultural activity in the Jewish field.

If Belarsky's recital draws a sizeable audience, the JCCA, always ready to supply the needs of the community, will be advised that more entertainment of a Jewish type is what the community wants.

The Post joins in urging the community to plan to attend the affair. Enough of the sad and trying fills Jewish life, as the happier and lighter side is overshadowed. Every meeting, every speaker stresses the tragedy of Jewish life. Sidor Belarsky will show the other side of the picture.

The Nadir of The Anglo-Jewish Press

THE ANGLO-JEWISH press of the United States reached the low point of its history last week when such leaders in the field as The Jewish Advocate of Boston and The Jewish Independent of Philadelphia both resorted to "canned" editorials to fill their editorial page. This type of dishonesty has grown, rather than languished with the coming of age of the Anglo-Jewish press, and although it may appear harsh to characterize this practice as deceit, yet somebody somewhere must say it.

There is no defense against the system. These editorials are written in the New York office of the several Anglo-Jewish news agencies, and then printed by the editors as their own, under their masthead, on which appears their name as editor.

To such an extent has the practice grown, and so wide has been its acceptance, that national Jewish agencies, taking advantage of this weakness, are becoming accustomed to sending out, in addition to their reams of often worthless publicity, another page or two headed, "suggested editorial".

This should be the height of insolence and should evoke the bitterest condemnation, but smack on the front page of The Jewish Herald of Providence, R. I., of last week, is an editorial sent out by the J. D. C. press department.

The obloquy attached to the Anglo-Jewish press by national Jewish leaders and organizations must be deserved, if the editorial prerogative, the one best criterion of a paper's worth, is sold so cheaply for the energy required to compose an editorial.

Current Comment

Judaism Becoming a Social Justice Program
Rabbi I. A. Weingart Declares in B'nai Jacob Bulletin—During this whole week the Protestants of Fort Wayne have been observing "Christian Mission Week" with eminent theologians and ministers present to lecture and preach at numerous services and meetings. I attended two sessions and went away depressed and perplexed.

I listened to a sermon by an outstanding guest pastor who spoke surprisingly, not on the war and not about the post war world, but rather delivered a stirring emotional, exhortative, Christian message. It was filled with Biblical quotations, simple truths, demanding Christians to be more religious, greater believers, more church going and also more ethical, moral and upright. This was a purely religious sermon. At an academic session, led by a theologian, he spoke of the truth, the divine word of God as revealed in the Bible, which he added, is translated in 1033 languages and dialects, and which all Christians must read, study and follow. The Christian Mission through its lecturers and preachers was demanding more Christianity for Christians.

I then wondered what is wrong with the Jew and Judaism and the rabbi as well? Rabbis almost exclusively speaks on social and political topics without reference to Bible and Judaism. Jews that do attend synagogue and temple demand book reviews and secular subjects, criticizing sermons on pure religion, and are vehement in their resentment of sermons that exhort and demand more Judaism and more Jewishness. The vast majority of Jews (of my community at least) cannot even read the Bible in the original Hebrew and care not even to know and study the Bible in translation. Judaism is becoming solely an ethical philosophy—a social justice program, and rabbis are commencing to believe that they are ordained as political scientists, economic experts, statesmen and politicians. Jews are, in the meantime, becoming more illiterate, more materialistic, more secularized—less Jewish and less religious. Our Bible is being transferred to the Christians and we are bereft of all save anti-Semitism, horror stories and sermons on how to save the world with or without Jews and Judaism.

Is it not time that rabbis and Jews give thought to this problem and attempt honestly to return the Jew from his secularism to Judaism as a religious path and guide in life?

TOWN CRIER

By G. M. C.

There is an excellent and thought-provoking article by Rabbi Frederic Doppelt of Fort Wayne in the current issue of "The Synagogue," publication of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, in which a good case is made on the disturbing question of "Is Prayer Answered?". Rabbi Doppelt develops the point, after declaring that our generation has practically forgotten how to pray, that prayer is efficacious in that in attuning man to God, man is empowered to do and accomplish what ordinarily he would not be able to encompass. The article is quite long, though not a bit involved, and otherwise I would have reprinted it.

I don't entirely agree with Rabbi Irving A. Weingart in his essay reprinted in the Current Comment section on the editorial page. I may be wrong but I believe that a rabbi should discuss from his pulpit the current questions aggravating the heart and mind of the Jew. He should discuss them fearlessly and frankly in the hope that they may provide, not particularly the answers, but at least the ferment that will point the way to the solution. For some time I have been receiving the bulletin of Rabbi Felix A. Levy's, Emanuel Congregation, in Chicago, and have been struck with the splendid timeliness of his sermon subjects. I wrote to him for a list of his subjects, and here they are from November of last year on:

"Three Years of Total War,"
"Some Rabbis Dissent."
Armistice Day sermon.
"Are Jews Irreligious?"
"The American Jew."
"The Spiritual Effect of Rationing."
"Christmas and the Jew."
"What Has 1943 in Store for Us?"
"Can American Jewry Unite?"
"What Our Young People Are Thinking Of."
"What Our Older People Are Thinking Of."
"Freedom of Speech."
"Freedom From Fear."
"Freedom for Religion."
"Freedom From Want."
"With What Shall We Indoc-trinate Civilians?"

who contend that the Welfare Fund should hold a large dinner, as last year, (from whence comes seventy per cent of the total amount raised) and after explaining the situation, seek increases from those who are in a position to make them, using as their logic the arguments advanced above. In this way, these people say, the success of the interim drive will definitely be assured, while if only a mail drive is held, the very opposite is almost a certainty.

Just when we were getting ready to suggest it as a possible source of supply, we read in bold type in an advertisement in The Jewish Standard of Jersey City, N. J., that "Horse Meat is Not Kosher."

By SARA MESSING STERN

Major Samuel J. Mantel, Head of Air Unit, 11th Port, Fort Lawton, Wash., flew to Indianapolis Sunday to spend a ten-day leave with his mother, Mrs. Emil Mantel. Mrs. Morris Fishbein, of Chicago, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Mantel, and remained until Tuesday to be with her brother. She came here with Mrs. Samuel J. Mantel, Sr., who spent a week in Chicago with Dr. and Mrs. Morris Fishbein. Mrs. Mantel was met in Chicago on her arrival from Ft. Lawton, Wash., by her son, Aviation Cadet Samuel J. Mantel, Jr., who flew to Chicago from Peru, Ind. He spent his three days leave with his mother at Dr. and Mrs. Morris Fishbein's. After Major Samuel J. Mantel's leave is over, his wife before joining him, will visit their younger son, Tom, who is a student at Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Efrogmson and Mrs. Rae Levy had a family reunion over last weekend. Mr. Nat Goodman, Mrs. Efrogmson and Mrs. Levy's brother from Louisville, Ky., with his wife and Mrs. Louis Diener of Baltimore, a sister, joined Mrs. Jerome E. Goodman of Baltimore who has been the house guest of the Efrogms for several weeks. Mrs. Jerome Goodman's husband, a brother of Mrs. Charles Efrogmson and Mrs. Rae Levy, is Lt. Commander in the navy somewhere on the high seas. Their nephew, Lt. Royce Diener, is in the Air Corps stationed at San Antonio, Tex. Mrs. Louis Diener visited her son, there, before coming to Indianapolis. The guests have returned to their respective homes.

Richard K. Munter who was graduated recently from the Officers Candidate School, Medical Administration Corps, Camp Berkeley, Abilene, Tex., as 2nd Lieutenant, was home on ten-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Saul Munter. His sister, Mrs. Leonard E. Lewy, Mr. Lewy and their young son, Tommy, of Chicago, Ill., joined the family here.

Word has reached Indianapolis of the death in New York City of Mrs. Stella Frank Gross and of Isadore Cohen, husband of Hattie Frank Cohen, New York City. There were four "Frank" girls as they were affectionately called in the "old days" of Indiana—Barbara, Ida, Stella and Hattie. Hattie is the only one left. They were all confirmed in the old Market Street Temple of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation and both Stella and Hattie were married in Indianapolis and then moved to New York City.

The Janot S. Roskins were at one time in charge of music at the Temple in Boston of which Rabbi Joshua Liebman is the able spiritual leader. That reminded me that Rabbi Liebman, early in his career, was spiritual head of Temple Israel, Lafayette. Temple Israel has been the proving ground for a long list of famous rabbis including Rabbi Horace J. Wolf, at the time of his death, rabbi in Rochester, N. Y., Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, Rabbi Nathan Krass of Temple Emmanuel, New York City, Rabbi B. J. Bamberger of Albany, N. Y., Rabbi Morris Feuerlicht of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, Rabbi Samuel Markowitz, Elmira, N. Y. Other Hoosier cities were also "experience schools" for young rabbis. Former leaders of Temple Israel in Terre Haute were: Rabbi Emil Leipziger, now in New Orleans, La., and Rabbi Joseph Fink in Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Abraham Cronbach, Professor of Social Studies at Hebrew Union College and a recent speaker here, was a rabbi, in his youth, in South Bend.

There must be many other well-known rabbis who occupied Hoosier pulpits. Anyone recalling their names and where they are now located might drop me a line.

These rabbis have brought honor to Indiana Jewry.

Bob Mack, professor of Psychology at the University of Illinois, Champagne, Ill., and Tony Blauner, Lieutenant U. S. Air Corps, Dayton, O., former owners of Rinks, spent Sunday with Melvin Atlas and wife. Mr. Atlas is recovering from an operation and is now home from St. Vincent's Hospital.

Services Held For Simon Strauss

Salem, Ind.; Sol Strauss of Paoli, Ind.; Nathan Strauss of Grand Rapids, Mich.; a grandniece, Mrs. Henry Strauss of Fredericksburg, Ind.; a brother of Mrs. Simon Strauss, Henry Nathan of Chicago and his son, C. Henry Nathan; a cousin, Walter Josephson of Peoria, Ill.; and Miss Cora Lippman and brothers Julius Lippman and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rich, all of Danville, Ill.; Mrs. Louise Snyder and daughter, Mrs. N. Ringer, Seymour, Ind., friends of the family. Mrs. Simon Strauss is at the Marott Hotel.

SAYS MANY YOUNG ATTENDING NEW SERVICES AT SEPHARDIC SHUL

To the editor,

Rabbi Michel B. Albagli, spiritual leader of the local Sephardic Community, aiming to bring the young generation to the Synagogue, introduced several months ago, in addition to the regular "Kabbalah Shabbath" services, special services for the sake of the young generation.

Since that time the Sephardic Synagogue has been filled, literally every Friday night. The majority of this big crowd consists of young people—children, young boys and girls, and young couples. It is indeed a real "Oneg Shabbath", "delight of the Sabbath" to see every Friday night in attendance at the Synagogue, fathers and mothers, with their sons and daughters, and their grandchildren united together in the worship of G-d at His Holy House.

APPRECIATION

To the editor,

Have just received a letter from Camp Robinson, Ark., and included in the letter was the following part, that I am certain you will appreciate:

Yes, I have been receiving The Post. I want to express my greatest appreciation for your thoughtfulness in having same mailed to me. It was through an article that I read in it last Saturday that I am now perhaps one of the happiest boys in the service. I saw the name of one of my college buddies who is now stationed here in Camp Robinson. When I went over to see him, I found not one, but four of my friends in the unit. I could not have been happier if I had found a pot of gold. Now I have some Jewish friends to associate with for the first time since I came into the service. I can thank you and The Post for all this joy since you are indirectly responsible for my finding these boys.

It was from

Thought you might be interested to note what grand results your are accomplishing.

Our Film Folks

HOLLYWOOD

Unless Specifically Stated, All Persons mentioned Are Jewish.
(c) 1943, Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—What a headache Hitler would have picking out the "Aryan" ingredients of this family. Joan Bennett's grandfather (her mother's father) was Jewish, giving her a one-fourth Hebraic ancestry. She has two daughters, one by each of her first two husbands, neither of whom was Jewish. Now she is married . . . to Walter Wanger, one of the Chosen . . . and she is expecting a stork-heir arrival. The newcomer will bear more of the Mosaic strain than either its mother or half-sister. Now you can go back to the easy job of figuring your income tax!

We've had an inquiry about Paul Henreid. In case you, too, have wanted to know—he is not Jewish. He is, however, outspokenly anti-Nazi, and fled Vienna during the German "putsch." Knowing that he was prominent in the Brown Shirts' Black Book, he had to leave England in those dark days of 1940, when the German invasion seemed imminent.

That 37,000-mile trek to the African war fronts made by Martha Raye and three other actresses sounds like a story out of Adventure magazine. Almost nightly . . . when the Jerries came over . . . the entertainers had to jump into dugouts, lie in mud in the pitch-darkness while the bombs fell. Often they travelled for days and nights without getting out of their clothes. Once, enroute, their plane was the target for a Nazi bomber, but they got through safely. After her companions had been ordered home to recuperate, Miss Raye stuck it out alone until she, too, was made to return. A contract for musicals awaits her at the Fox lot.

The Museum of Modern Art Film Library plans to release

"People on Sunday," a picture directed by Curt Siodmak in 1930. At that time it was reviewed as one of the best films ever produced even though it took but ten days to make and cost only $15,000. Siodmak is now in Hollywood—thanks to House-painter Adolf. Currently he is directing "Destiny."

Fritz Feld has been banged around so much in all his pictures that he was elated when he read his script for "Phantom of the Opera." His part is that of an old aristocrat. "The only exertion required of me will be lifting a monocle to my eye," he said, delighted. Waiting for his camera call the other day, he stood on the sidelines when "Woosh!"—a workman on the cat-walk above accidentally knocked over a bucket of paint. And there was Feld—all roughed up again.

We can recommend Jack Benny's "Meanest Man in the World" for a pleasant hour's release from war duties. Jack's acting . . . though not a serious threat to Oscar contenders . . . is not hard to take. Benny is scheduled for army camp appearances in Canada and Mexico . . . and seeks permission to tour in the British Isles.

Honored: Irving Berlin was awarded the Navy "E" in recognition of the splendid work his show has accomplished particularly in entertaining hospitalized servicemen. Berlin accepted the penant on behalf of the troupe and turned it over to them. Eddie Cantor received letters of high praise from Henry J. Kaiser for being "the top recruiter of the Kaiser Shipyards." Kaiser said that after Cantor's talk, during a visit to the yards, five times

I condemn those who expel these people from their homes and who deport them. Lithuanian officials must realize that such activities are not a part of their duties." ## MRS. SANDOCK, SOUTH BEND, WINS BOND AWARDED BY POST, ANONYMOUS GIVER

Several weeks ago The Post received a voluntary contribution of $4.00 from a reader with the admonition to use the money to pay for some of the several hundred subscriptions the paper sends free to soldiers. Not willing to accept the check, The Post secured the anonymous giver's consent to have it awarded in the form of a $4.00 war bond to the Jewish person or organization in Indiana doing most for the war effort. Although the response to this offer, to be awarded by the editor for the best letter by or about the person or organization was not overwhelming, there was keen competition for the award. The following letter about Mrs. Ida Sandock, of South Bend, was adjudged winner, and the bond mailed to her this week. The letter-writer might be said to be slightly prejudiced in favor of Mrs. Sandock; she is her daughter.

To the editor,

Ida "I Sell Anything" Sandock is the name, and she will sell anything—anything for a cause! Her fields of endeavor range from trees to tickets, with newspapers and a little insurance thrown in. Nothing is too mighty or too insignificant for Ida Sandock to tackle.

Twenty years ago she sold Hadassah to a group of seven women, until today it is a city-wide organization on its own. Two years later it was the Junior Hadassah. Twelve years ago she introduced the Little Blue Boxes of the Jewish National Fund to the South Bend community. Today she's selling American Jewish Congress, in conjunction with the war effort.

It keeps her busy—the tickets for the Zionist organization and the Hadassah medical unit; the subscriptions for the benefit of the Palestine Defense Fund; insurance policies for the same organization; trees for the Jewish National Fund; stamps and war bonds for the American Jewish Congress; and knitting and sewing for the British and Russian War Relief.

The latter has been the principal interest of Mrs. Sandock since the war began. In the last two years she and the group with her have sent sixteen shipments of goods to Britain, and five shipments to Russia. This was all volunteer work, and unlike the Red Cross even the wool had to be paid for by the workers. Besides individual contributors, Mrs. Sandock enlisted the aid of the Hebrew Ladies Auxiliary, the Hebrew Sisters Loan Association, the Daughters of Israel, the Hebrew Orthodox Sisterhood, and Hadassah.

When it started, the knitting was confined to making 6-inch squares, which were then sewn together to make blankets. Her last shipment to the British War Relief agency included nine sweaters, six pair stockings, and one blanket made entirely of scrap yarn. The fifth shipment to Russia, consisting of over 100 pounds of shipping, included four sweaters, 75 pair stockings, one muffler, and 12 blankets made entirely of pieces of upholstery.

These blankets are unique contributions, originated by Mrs. Sandock. When there was no more yarn to be had for blankets, Mrs. Sandock went to the local haberdasheries and begged pieces of men's suiting samples. These were sewn together into warm blankets for the war sufferers. When her sources of samples were exhausted, Mrs. Sandock turned to the furniture stores and requested upholstery pieces. The twelve beautiful blankets for Russia were the result. She is now working on scrap bed-spread materials.

Mrs. Sandock also found time to sandwich in a Red Cross course. But the major part of her war work is in conjunction with the American Jewish Congress, and has a longer view than immediate relief. It has created contacts which lead to the organizing in South Bend of a

HAVEN FOR 2 MILLION

MOSHE SHERTOK

Moshe Shertok, ranking diplomatic representative of the Chief of the Political Department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine arrived in the United States by Clipper from London last week. Born in Kherson, Russia on Oct. 3, 1894, he was only 11 when his parents brought him to Palestine to live in a purely Arab village, Ain Suniyah, where he learned the Arab language and customs, speaking the tongue more fluently and more literately than most Arabs. During the course of his lifetime he has learned to know the Arabs and their problems perhaps more intimately than any Jew in Palestine today.

chapter of the Congress, the importance of which organization, relating to both the war solution of the Jews' problems, cannot in the opinion of Mrs. Sandock be exaggerated. And so, she is knitting and sewing, begging and borrowing and tapping hitherto unused and unknown sources for aid in the war effort.

And selling, selling, selling. Oh, an incidentally, if you have any unused sugar and coffee stamps, will you send them along for the Congress' New York Servicemen's Houses, along with your applications for tickets, trees, stamps, bonds, newspapers, and insurance policies?

LOUISE S. FEFERMAN.
South Bend.

Shertok Here to See State Department With Concrete Plan

Special

NEW YORK—Palestine is prepared immediately to undertake the settlement of 2,000,000 uprooted Jews from Europe, Moshe Shertok, head of the Political Department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, told a press conference this week at the St. Regis Hotel. Mr. Shertok arrived in this country recently aboard a Clipper from London, where he conferred with British government officials.

While an Allied victory will assure legal equality for the Jews and other minority peoples, it will "require a program of dynamic action on the part of the governments of European countries to restore the Jews to their former economic status," the Palestine Jewish leader said. He expressed the view that the economic situation of the Jews in Europe would be worse after the war, and urged that the United Nations take immediate action to provide for mass immigration into and colonization in Palestine.

He said that the purpose of his visit to the United States was twofold: (a) to urge concerted action on the part of the United Nations to make representations through neutral countries to Germany for the release of Jewish populations under her control, and (b) to place before State Department officials and the British Embassy in Washington concrete proposals for large-scale reconstruction and settlement of refugees in Palestine after the war has ended.

Moses Against Influx After War

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Restricted post-war immigration into the United States is advocated by Robert Moses, New York City and state official, in an article in the March issue of the Readers Digest. "Our first duty is to provide our own population, including the returning of members of the armed forces, with work, food, shelter and a decent chance to enjoy the victory which they have earned," Mr. Moses writes. Our present quota system, he believes, is the most equitable solution found thus far.

Claiming that the United States has been far more liberal in immigration laws than any other great nation, Mr. Moses says that between 1820 and 1942 America admitted over 38,000,000 immigrants who have brought to it the strength, the skill and the talent of every race on the globe. But, he claims, the enormous floods of immigrants who entered in the first quarter of the 20th century clogged America's economic, administrative, social and cultural systems in scores of ways.

at the Y.W.C.A. In addition to her regular studies, she has been actively engaged in work as assistant editor of "the Syllabus," the school annual publication, has been elected a member of "The Wildcats" and is acting on the Scholarship Committee at the Hobart House, of which she is a resident.

COUGHLIN TO GO BACK ON AIR

Father Coughlin will be heard over the air again ere long. . . . Arrangements have been completed for him to make a weekly broadcast to be carried by 165 stations, located mostly in Mexico and South America. . . . And, strange though it may seem, Coughlin's hierarchic superiors are said to view with great favor this venture into "good neighborly" activity. . . . Silliest suggestion we've heard in a long time proposes that after the war all Nazis be compelled to wear sleevebands bearing the letter N—in analogy to the J the Nazis make Jews wear throughout occupied Europe. . . . Since when are we supposed to adopt Hitler's methods against any one, even his followers? . . . Dr. Preston Bradley, the Chicago clergyman who is unquestionably the most popular radio broadcaster in the Midwestern area, has come out in no uncertain terms against the hush-hush policy of a certain type of Jewish leadership. . . . In a recent broadcast he warned his large audience that Hitlerism may come to prevail even without Hitler unless domestic Fascism is fought openly.

SAMUEL WRITES IN NEW FORM

Reviewers will have a hard time classifying Maurice Samuel's new book, "The World of Sholom Aleichem." It is neither anthology nor biography, but a most individualistic volume, written with typical Samuelesque brilliance, revealing a world heretofore unknown to practically all American readers. We hope ex-Ambassador Joseph E. Davies doesn't mind our pointing out a minor error we just caught in his "Mission to Moscow" edition. We herewith inform Mr. Davies that Mrs. Maxim Litvinov is not the sister of his old friend Sir Sidney Low of London, but the niece of the late editor and historian. Jewish historians of the future will appreciate the work being done by Saul Hayes, director of the Canadian Jewish Congress, who is keeping a complete file on the 10,000 Canadian Jews in the armed forces of their country and of others of the United Nations. Hayes' records include not merely the names, ranks, etc., of those fighting Jews, but also photographs, clippings, letters and other documents wherever these are available.

PROGRAM AIRED OUT

Harry Hirshfield writes in to advise us that our recent complaint about the radio program "Can You Top This?" featuring too many Jewish jokes no longer is justified, as the program has now been revamped. We listened in the other night, and are glad to report that Harry has done a swell job, and the program is not only completely delightful but lots funnier than before. Cincinnatians will have the opportunity this week end to hear a performance, by their own Symphony Orchestra, of a tone poem, entitled "The Last Knight," composed by Mrs. Meyer (bandleader) Davis. Charlie Spivak, the trumpeter and bandleader, has just signed a contract to record with RCA Victor, and is proud indeed of that distinction. But he's prouder still of his son, 7-year-old Joel, who recently devised a melody which has been published under the title, "Hop, Skip and Jump," and for which the youngster is now receiving royalty checks. Larry Adler's hoard of spare harmonicas—which he can't replace, Germany—has been deposited in a bank vault, and he's hoping and since somehow or other satisfactory instruments all come from praying that the spares will last him till the day of victory will enable him to replenish his supply of those short-lived gadgets.

MUNI'S SCIATICA EXPLAINED

Our deepest sympathy to E. D. Swann, one of the head executives of the Cone, Belding advertising agency, whose wife, the singer Tamara, was one of the passengers lost in the recent clipper crash at Lisbon. Swann, one of the most brilliant men in his profession, is deeply interested in the furtherance of Christian-Jewish relations. Now it can be told that it was a patriotic desire to conserve gasoline that brought in Paul Muni's attack of sciatica. Living eight miles from the nearest railroad station, and faced with the necessity of coming into town every weekday to play his part in "Counselor-at-Law," commuter Muni decided to use, instead of his car, a small motor-driven scooter that burns much less gas. And it was the Long Island breezes playing on the player's exposed extremities that caused sciatica. From Hollywood comes the news that songstress Dinah Shore's latest escort is Captain Marvin Schachter, a Marine who saw action in Guadalcanal. And Pearl Harbor reports that the Navy's Artie Shaw, who used to belong to the tribe of bandleaders, is now stationed there.

Mothers of World War II Give Party

Special
MARION — Several parties were scheduled for this week by members of the Mothers of World War II. Among them is one to be given Tuesday night at Sinai Temple. The hostesses will be Mrs. Adolph Abel and Mrs. Sam Fleck. Various games and cards will be played and refreshments will be served.

Personals— Mrs. Harry Lasky returned Friday from a six weeks vacation. After spending two weeks in St. Louis with relatives she spent four weeks in Hot Springs, Ark. Several guests attended a birthday anniversary party given in celebration of the 13th birthday anniversary of Carolyn Lurie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Lurie, recently at her home. The Sinai Temple Sisterhood meeting was held on Monday, Mar. 1. Hostesses were Mrs. I. H. Stoller, Mrs. M. Bernstein and Mrs. Joseph Stiefler.

At his prayers, the old Jew regularly thanked God for "die drel velt" (the three worlds). Wondering what they were, his friends asked him for an explanation. "It's simple," said the pious old man. "They are 'die velt' (this world), 'yener velt' (the other world), and 'Roosevelt'—Euclid Avenue Temple Bulletin.

AL SEGAL Speaks On IF I WERE CHRISTIAN

A CHRISTIAN citizen sends me a tract entitled "Signs of Christ's Coming" by which to comfort me in my Jewish travails. The tract says that all the terrible things that have been happening in the world are certain signs of Christ's second coming, in accordance with New Testament prophecies.

The citizen says it will be all right with the Jews, too, in the hour of the second coming. Righteousness will rule the earth, and the Jews will be embraced by its justice.

If I were a Christian I should be horribly troubled by the prospect of this visitation. It would be as if an old teacher of mine were coming; he taught me the way to go in the world. Now he was coming and my house was in an awful disorder. My windows smashed. All my lights broken and the house in darkness. My doorstep foul with the blood of the broken heads of people who had roughhoused there.

I should be embarrassed especially on account of the Jews, the kinsman of Jesus. What will he say about the Jews? These hecatombs of slaughtered Jews piled high in Poland! These discriminations that set Jews apart almost everywhere! These revilements against Jews that are heard even among peoples that are at the moment fighting for a more righteous world!

What will He say? Yet He may say nothing at all. What would trouble me as a Christian was the reproachful way He might look at me. I have seen His reproachful eyes on big crucifixes. The way He looks at people with sad rebuke up there on the hill in front of Holy Cross Church. He looks at them from His height as they climb toward Him up the hill.

Yes, that's what would trouble me: His coming to my door, all of a sudden, some day, and just looking at me in the same way that he looks at people by the church on the hill. I would know what He meant: "I was but one of the crucified! Man is forever crucifying his brethren. I was only one."

I would speak for myself. "But, O my Master, I myself have tried to be faithful in all things. I have hurt no fellowman. I have loved my neighbors. I have tried to go in the footsteps of the Good Samaritan on the Jerico road. I have tried to be a Christian."

But even as I said this I would know that it was only myself I was defending. He was looking through me at the Christian world. At 2,000 years of the Christian world! These massed church steeples! These ancient altars that testify to the antiquity of His teaching! These murdered dead in the long graves into which they fell as they died! These starved dead! These persecuted and these despised who are being set aside in portions of the world where cold murder is disapproved as a social custom! These dead among all the altars!

I shouldn't know what more to say to Him. I would feel like an embarrassed member of a delinquent family that had suddenly been asked to give an honest accounting of what it had done with its inheritance. My own assets of virtue would not be enough to make up for the bankruptcy.

I write this with a reverent and friendly heart, for some of my best friends are Christian gentlemen. They hate only hate itself; they are men of good will; they respect other men in accordance with their essential merits and by no measure of race or religion or blood count. Once in a while they apologize to me for the Christian world.

Were I a Christian with faith in the prophecies of my Scripture—the second coming of Christ and all that—I should want to make the world ready for the Visitor. I might speak to all my neighbors.

"My neighbors, we are told He's coming and the world must be made safe for Him, lest He be crucified again. We should be ashamed to welcome Him in the world as it is, 2,000 years after His Sermon on the Mount. We should be afraid and ashamed."

"How safe will He be this time in the world? He is a Jew and what comfort will He find amid the stones that are for Jews. He preaches a society made good by righteousness and compassion, and what friendliness will he get from men who call righteousness radical and despise compassion as weakness?"

"He must not suffer another crucifixion. "My Christian neighbors, we might try to make the world safe for Him by brotherhood. Brotherhood that is more than a morsel to roll sweetly on our tongues. Brotherhood established by justice. Brotherhood that serves every man his just due at the common table. Brotherhood that understands it is of the family of man and what is my special virtue that I may say, No, this is not my brother and he may not sit at the table since he is not of my blood, my faith or nationality?"

"Brotherhood that does not take from the poor to fatten the bigger brothers; that, if it can't love all the brothers, respects every one's essential dignity; that knows even the brother on the distant mountain top behind which the sun falls and the far-off brother on the shore whence the sun rises; the brother in the remote valley where the Chinese digs for his bread and the brother in the Negro's cabin."

"That is Christianity. We are in a time to do something about it. A time when the grapes of wrath are being trampled out and the earth is being made ready for the sowing of righteousness. A time when we battle as kinsmen beside other men of other faiths and races; they fight by our side, so close to us that when the battle's over we may reach out and take their hands. . . . 'Come, now, my brother, let us go in brotherhood to make the world good.'"

"Then we shall be ready for the second coming. Yet if He doesn't come we shall be content. By brotherhood we shall come to a dazzling revelation: That our Teacher has been here all the time and at last we have accepted Him."

TEL AVIV DOUBLES BOUNDARIES:
$20,000,000 LOAN IS FLOATED

Special
TEL AVIV — The municipal boundaries of Tel Aviv are to be doubled in accordance with the orders issued by the high commissioner. Its boundaries occupying an area of 6,300 dunams will be increased to 12,650 dunams.

When the city was first founded in 1909 it occupied an area of only 150 dunams.

A loan in the amount of 5,000,000 pounds ($20,000,000), the largest loan to be launched in the history of the all-Jewish city, was floated by the municipality and will be payable in 30 years at the rate of 3½ per cent.

The decision to float the loan was motivated by the recent extension of the municipal boundaries, and the money is to be spent over a period of five years in carrying out a comprehensive program of new housing, water supply, drainage, etc. Mayor I. Rokach declared that the program is designed to give employment to returned soldiers and workers who are at present engaged in war industries as well as to new immigrants.

South Side Sewers
Aid Palestine

Hadassah's year old South Side Sewing Group, organized by Mrs. Miriam Forman in November of 1941, has already sent 4,700 pieces of clothing and linens to Palestine, it was announced this week. The shipments included sheets, pillow cases, baby blankets, towels, diapers, etc. The group meets each Tuesday morning. A luncheon is served to the members under the chairmanship of Mrs. Max Gavin. Proceeds of the luncheon are used to buy materials. The women have already spent $984 for materials, contributed by themselves.

Last week the South Side Sewing Group met an extra day to sew for Russian relief, and this week they are giving an extra day to assisting in the Red Cross preparation of clothing, in addition to their regular Hadassah work.

Hadassah's Sewing Group has always done more than its share. The new South Side Group is a worthy addition to the fold.
